Hours of Work for Minors:

Minors are allowed to work limited hours compared to adults in Washington. In general, the hours they can work vary depending on age, the type of work, and whether school is in session.

The work week for minors is Sunday through Saturday and the school week is Monday through Friday. Any week with any amount of school time is considered a school week. Minors cannot work during school hours.

The tables below show the hours of work not to be exceeded by youth 14-17 years old across all jobs/internships. The same hours of work apply to minors attending home school or alternative school, and minors not enrolled in school.
